Fund Performance Update September 30, 2025

Comments by Mellon, Investment Manager

US Treasury bond yields moved lower by as much as 22 basis points (bps) in September, with the exception of the 3-5-year area, which increased slightly, on expectations that the Federal Reserve (Fed) will continue to lower the target rate in the coming months. Equity markets reached new all-time highs again in September as the Dow Jones Industrial Average, S&P 500, and Nasdaq-100 indexes gained 3.2%, 1.9% and 5.6%, respectively. As expected, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) lowered rates by 25 bp to 4.0-4.25%. There was only one dovish dissent for a larger cut – 50 bp from new governor Stephen Miran. Members believe the balance of risks has shifted and the upside risks to unemployment now loom larger than the upside risks to inflation. Chair Jerome Powell emphasized the Fed's commitment to preventing temporary tariff-driven price increases from becoming entrenched, noting current inflation expectations remain anchored, but warned that stronger inflation or positive labor market developments could shift focus back to inflation risks. Second quarter GDP was revised upward due to stronger-than-expected consumer spending. August US consumer spending exceeded expectations, with a 0.4% rise and upward revisions to prior months, driven mainly by discretionary goods spending recovery. The next FOMC meeting is scheduled for October 29. At the end of September, the market was fully pricing in a rate cut of 25 bps at the meeting.

(c) The Weighted Average Maturity
One calculation uses the industry standard definition of state maturity for floating rate instruments, the number of days until the next reset date. The Weighted Average Maturity Two calculation uses the final maturity of any floating rate instruments, as opined in Texas Attorney General Opinion No. JC0359.
