Dream Builders is a college, career, and self exploration class. We will be doing Project Adventure games and activities to promote important life skills such as goal setting, teamwork, active listening, leadership and trust.

Cassie's Corner...

CONNECT

Set some ground rules.

Establish clear guidelines like what types of sites kids can visit, apps they can download, and when they can have access to electronics. Consider "blackout" periods that require disconnection.

Research before you buy.

It's important to learn about a device's capabilities before you buy. Will it allow unknown people to communicate with my child? Will this allow children to make unchecked purchases?

Go beyond safeguards.

Installing monitoring software doesn't guarantee your child will be safe online. Time, attention and active conversation are the best tools to protect them.

REPORT!

If your kids are dealing with cyberbullies or potential online enticement, report it to the website, cell phone provider, law enforcement or CyberTipline.org

LEARN

Know the platforms.

Online enticement happens across all platforms, so be aware of the sites, games and apps your children frequent. Ask them to show you how they use them.

Be proactive.

Teach your kids to spot common tricks used by online offenders. In NCMEC CyberTipline reports, the most common tactics used to entice a child online were:

- Engaging the child in sexual conversation/roleplay as a grooming method.
- Directly asking the child for sexually explicit images of themselves, or offering to mutually exchange images.
- Developing a rapport with the child through compliments and other supportive behaviors such as "liking" their online posts.
- Sending unprompted sexually explicit images of themselves.
- Pretending to be younger.
- Offering incentives for explicit content.

Spot the Red Flags.

A child who is experiencing online enticement may be:

- Spending increasing time online.
- Getting upset when he or she is not allowed on their device.
- Taking extra steps to conceal what they are doing online.
- Receiving gifts from people you don't know.

PROTECTING YOUR KIDS ONLINE 2.0

ENGAGE

Talk about it!

Your kids might not tell you everything, but ask anyway. Regular conversations about safety can go a long way in increasing trust and communication.

Get involved.

Challenge them to a duel. If you have kids who like to play online games, ask if you can play, too. When you respect their interests, they're more likely to respect your rules.

Don't pull the plug.

Taking away internet access because they may have made mistakes online doesn't solve the problem. Talk to them about protecting themselves and respecting others online.

The Book Shelf

LBMS Library Happenings

Hello Vikings!

Just a quick note to let you know that I have been sending emails home to let your family know that some of you still have books from last year out, and how you can return or replace them. I've already got a couple of them back, and I'm confident the rest of you will get yours returned as well.

Once progress has been made getting the books returned, we can move forward with checking out books during Distance Learning. I will have a concept together for you, as well as some instructional material, hopefully by the start of 2nd quarter.

As always, if you have questions or concerns please contact me Mon-Thur until 5:30, and we can discuss whatever is on your mind. See you online!
