Principal’s General Narrative:

Teachers and students have been really busy with the state testing program and preparing for various events that highlight the social, academic, athletic, and literary accomplishments of our students.

The school year will be coming to a quick end with many things to do in order to bring the year to a close. I want to commend the professional staff, as well as the para-professional staff for the time and effort they put in for students and the many things they do to get them to be successful in completing the year. As always, the office staff has been remarkable in their endeavors and attention to details.

The various support staffs have also been great in keeping the facilities and technology needs in good shape.

Respectfully submitted,

George T. “Stoney” Burks
