Science	Advanced Placement (AP) Physics C	University Physics, 15th ed., Young and Freedman, Savvas Publishing	2020	The College Board has made significant changes to the second-year AP Physics C curriculum which will take effect in Fall 2021. This text is aligned to the new course expectations, is widely viewed as the leading resource for calculus-based physics, and is used by other suburban high schools. Please note: this resource is commonly designed and marketed as a college textbook. As such, both the initial purchase price and the subsequent annual cost of the online components are significantly higher than we would see with a more typical resource. While the investment is significant, this is mitigated by the fact that we typically run only one section of this course each year, largely for students likely to pursue high-level science and/or engineering in college.	30	$250	$7,972
Wellness	Sociology of Sports (Dual Credit)	Social Issues in Sport, 4th Edition, Ronald Woods, Human Kinetics Publishing	2021	This textbook supports the new dual credit Social Issues in Sports course that will be starting during the 2021-22 school year. This text has been selected by Waubensee Community College as part of our dual credit agreement with them. Our independent evaluation of this text confirms that it is a quality resource.	32	$134	$4,688
English	English 1 Honors	The Jungle, Upton Sinclair, Penquin Publishing	1906	The Jungle will replace The Count of Monte Cristo as the summer reading novel for incoming freshmen enrolled in English 1 Honors. The Jungle lends itself to the core standards: key ideas and details, craft and structure, integration of knowledge and ideas, range of reading, and level of text complexity.	90	$10	NA*
* Resources notated with an NA are consumable texts that are either purchased directly by families or funded by a course fee.						Approx. Total	12,660
