Teaching, Learning & Relevance

- Numeracy - Analyzed data from ACT scores based on coursework taken and areas of weakness in the math portion of the ACT in order to identify proficiency trends based on courses taken and begin to analyze the curriculum and relationship to student performance.
- Numeracy & Literacy - Departments continue the work of identifying proficiency levels for essential targets and develop assessments that accurately measure student proficiency.
- Relevance - The development of student readiness indicators is still in progress. Work is being focused on the best format to communicate data results and tracking systems.

District Workforce

- PD & Collaboration - Through Co-teaching professional development sessions, Math, ELA and Special Education teachers are beginning to discuss collaboration needs to effectively implement the co-teaching model. More learning is needed and collaboration opportunities will continue to be key to implementation.
- The building leadership team is participating in discussions to identify multiple ways to increase staff collaboration time through professional development days and daily operations.
