Background Information: Celina ISD administers MAP (Measures of Academic Progress) assessments to help teachers and administrators monitor student growth throughout the year. In addition, MAP results empower students to take an active role in their learning by setting personalized goals and tracking their growth over time. Students are assessed in English Language Arts, Math, and Science at the beginning, middle, and end of each school year. District leadership will provide the Board with updates after each administration to share key insights into student progress and overall achievement.
