NATIONAL COMMUNITY EDUCATION DAY

Learning for Life: FLASCE Celebrates National Community Ed Day!

Celebrate with Us on November 12th!
In 1987, President Ronald Reagan proclaimed National Community Education Day, inviting all Americans to show appreciation for the role of community resources in education. To keep the momentum going, the FLASCE team will be passing out stickers at classes and events happening on Thursday, November 12. Join a class, visit our facilities or say thank you to our incredible instructors who make lifelong learning possible!

From Early Childhood to 55+
We offer classes and activities for every generation in our community. Our Early Childhood programs bring parents and children together to learn, play and prepare for school. For K-12 students, we provide recreational sports and creative after-school activities. We offer a wide range of adult classes, plus affordable skill-building through ABE, our LINK program for individuals with disabilities and vibrant wellness and social activities for those aged 55 and older. No matter your age, our doors are open!

Driven by Our Neighbors
What makes our programming thrive is our community's direct investment. Guided by a dedicated citizen advisory board, FLASCE actively identifies the lifelong learning needs of our neighbors to provide innovative, cost-effective and engaging opportunities. Together, we build the programs that drive our school district forward.
