Anna Szkliniarz
Freshman
Science

The Science Department selected Anna Szkliniarz as the Freshman Student of the Month. Anna lists Art I, Biology Honors and Integrated Math II Honors as her favorite classes. Her teachers say she comes to class each day prepared and excited to learn. The first to volunteer to help a teacher or her peers, Anna is funny when appropriate and focused when needed. She challenges herself and is reliable. Anna already has involved herself in a wide variety of activities, including Student Council, Leo Club, Health Occupations Student Association, Baking Club, and serving as a class officer. In the future, she hopes to pursue a career in the healthcare field. Anna plays club soccer, sand volleyball, and the piano, and has a black belt in taekwondo. She has a business on Etsy and enjoys making crafts, baking, and painting nails.

David Kersnauskis
Sophomore
Business

David Kersnauskis was cited as the Sophomore Student of the Month by the Business Department. A high honor roll performer, David says his favorite classes always are changing. He is a member of both the boys' volleyball program and the Speech Team, for whom he has placed in many tournaments. His teachers appreciate how David participates in class without being asked. He works effectively within team projects and is very well mannered. His organization skills help him complete projects and assignments. In the future, David plans to attend a university, earn both bachelor's and master's degrees, and become financially stable. He has taken up learning Web design and enjoys skateboarding, running, cycling, and exploring careers he's interested in.

Delaney Moleski
Junior
Mathematics

The Mathematics Department tabbed Delaney Moleski as the Junior Student of the Month. Delaney is a high honor roll student whose favorite classes include AP Calculus BC, AP Economics, and Anatomy & Physiology Honors, among others. She strives for a deep understanding of content she's learning and collaborates consistently with peers. Her hard work and drive make her one of the top students in her classes, and her understanding and compassion make her a wonderful classmate. Delaney has earned induction to several honor societies, serves as a class officer and on the Student Council, and is a member the school's dance team, Leo Club, Link Crew, and Golden Cheer & Dance. She plans to pursue studies in occupational or physical therapy. Delaney works part-time and enjoys dancing and volunteering at The Legacy Ranch.

Jacob Telitz
Senior
Music

Jacob Telitz was named the Senior Student of the Month by the Music Department. Jacob is an honor roll student who most enjoys AP Music Theory, choir, guitar, Jazz Band, Marching Band, and Concert Band. His teachers note that he excels in each of those classes and is an all-state level musician on the bass clarinet, but he also plays extremely well on guitar and the bass trombone in Jazz Band. More importantly, Jacob has been an incredible asset to the band and choir programs through his service to others. He always is willing to lend his time to other students to make the group achieve at a higher level. Involved with the school's Speech Team and theater program, Jacob was selected for the ILMEA Honor Band. He hopes to pursue studies in music education, and enjoys learning and writing music in his free time.
