

I LOVE Education Award Nomination

Nominee: Jen Slater, Librarian – West Field High School

It is an honor to nominate Jen Slater, our dedicated librarian at West Field High School, for the I LOVE Education Award. Jen goes above and beyond to support students, teachers, and our school community in countless ways.

Jen ensures that students and teachers not only have the resources they need when visiting the library, but also understand how to use the variety of tools available to them. She frequently hosts classes in the library, providing instruction on research skills and academic resources, and creating a welcoming, student-centered learning environment.

Beyond her library responsibilities, Jen plays a vital role in the Sterling Scholar program. She ensures students are well-informed about deadlines and requirements, communicates important details to all participants, organizes mock interviews, reviews student portfolios, and even hosts a celebratory lunch for those selected as West Field's Sterling Scholars. Her commitment gives our students the confidence and preparation they need to succeed in this prestigious program.

In addition, Jen serves as the leader of our Mentoring Committee, where she helps develop meaningful lessons for the Mentoring class and equips students with skills for lifelong learning and success beyond high school.

Jen's dedication, creativity, and tireless support make her an invaluable part of West Field High School. She embodies the spirit of education and is truly deserving of recognition with the I LOVE Education Award.

Sincerely,

West Field Administration
