

Information on the Color Selection of the V-300 Track Surface

I have discussed the issue of color selection for our new V-300 Track Surface with several different people who should know about the fading of the different colors. I have been told that the only color that will not really fade very much is black. The next best color for minimizing the fading is red. All the other special colors will fade faster than red or black. Our school color, maroon will fade faster than the red or black. I think that any of the three colors (red, black or maroon) will look good on our new track surface with our new turf field and new bleachers. We need to make the decision of what color our new track surface will be at this Regular May School Board Meeting. I don't really have a personal preference. If I knew that the maroon color would not fade any faster than the red or black it would be an easy decision for me to recommend the maroon color.

Thanks,
