95	family retention in ISD 709 will be a main concern for the new Superintendant if East families are shipped West. Personally, I'm an East family not willing to drive 35 mins or place my kids on a bus for 2 hours to go to school when my neighborhood school is 15-20 mins away. (We are a Homecroft family 1300 feet from the Hermantown line). It has nothing to do with not wanting to go West because of an "Inter-city" school that the district has made it seem that all East families think of the West side of town.	1/19/2020 10:55 AM

106	Equality for every student not equity. Every student needs to be held to the same discipline and standards. Our students safety is the upmost importance to everyone. Having students behave in the classroom so the teacher can teach and the children who want to learn are able to just that.	1/15/2020 8:50 AM
107	The fact that we have a seeming commitment based on actions in creating two distinctly different schools rather than one distinct school district.	1/14/2020 4:56 PM
108	If by doctoral degree you mean EdD, the degree is completely overrated. It is not a PhD, which is a mistake many people make. There is little rigor, less research, and no original contribution to the field of education required for the credential, which IS the requirement of the PhD. An EdD is more of a "leadership" degree. While leadership may be taught in a classroom, it is not necessarily learned or put into practice there. There is sufficient evidence for that in our most recent hires. If the credentials you are identifying are those of a PhD, that is a much different story and would certainly be desirable because the degree requires original thinking.	1/14/2020 3:33 PM
