To Whom It May Concern:

John C. Maxwell, Leadership Author, once remarked: "When you come to the table with the attitude of helping and serving others, you immediately compound the influence, effectiveness, and results of everyone involved." We have all heard the old adage about investing our time and efforts into those who will maximize the effectiveness of a team. For this reason, please allow me to recommend Mr. Jerry Hancock for an administrative position in your school district or through Region 7 ESC.

Marshall ISD has employed Mr. Hancock for the past eight years, where he is currently serving as the Assistant Principal at Sam Houston Middle School. Prior to that time, Jerry served as a Grade 4 reading/language arts teacher at David Crockett Elementary, where I formerly served as his campus principal. The instructional methods he has employed have produced knowledgeable and enthusiastic students.

Mr. Hancock is a hard-working self-starter who invariably understands what a project is all about from the onset, and how to accomplish it quickly and effectively. Jerry has mastered the art of building positive relationships with students, while being able to balance and cultivate those relationships through a level of high expectations of himself and of others. Mr. Hancock's ability to work well with his fellow team members and co-workers, as well as his genuine concern for young people, have attributed to his success. As Ron Clark, Disney's 2000 Teacher of the Year, would say, he is a "teacher with a parent's heart." In short, he is an asset to our profession.

It is my professional opinion that Jerry Hancock is a dedicated and knowledgeable educator who would be a tremendous asset to any school district or educational organization. Please feel free to contact me should you have any questions or would like confirmation of the aforementioned qualities.

Sincerely,

Lara L. Cavin
