Board Report

I love February, it gives us another chance to be creative. Unfortunately, we did not get any pictures of our classroom doors or the creations the children did for their parents. I might have to purchase a camera for such events. We did get one of their party. They are all waiting so patiently to distribute their treats and cards. Even the babies took part in making their boxes.

If you look closely at the background, you can see a partition wall. This is the contractors working behind the wall. Being that it was a safety concern the children would have to limit their time in the big room. We now have a little paint touch up in the big room. Once classroom is complete as well as my office. They will start on opening up the wall between the classroom and restroom by end of day. I believe they are about 90% done.

I am so proud of the teachers for being able to role with what ever was happening that day. They are so ready to go back to a normal of any sort.
