High School Summer School

Parkrose High Summer School is a four-week program that allows students the opportunity to retake a semester course they did not pass during the school year or take an elective course to free up space in their school schedule for other classes. All courses will be taught in-person by Parkrose faculty. The faculty will oversee student work and support their progress. Students can expect to earn 0.5 credit (one semester class) for each course they complete. Recovery for special education students will also be provided at this time.
