Together, as school board members, we represent all of our diverse communities and families in our respective districts, and we stand united in shock and disappointment over comments written, shared, and endorsed by Clackamas County Commissioner Mark Shull on social media.

His deeply hateful and hostile rhetoric cast dangerous bigotry and intolerance on many historically and presently marginalized groups, including Muslims, immigrants, and trans individuals. In his role as an elected official Mark Shull took an oath to advocate, support and represent all constituents in his county, regardless of their race, religion, ethnicity, class, and protected status. The volume and breadth of the Commissioner's comments demonstrate a severe disconnect with the shared values of Clackamas County and the region, and we have lost any trust in his ability to serve the county equitably and justly. As the Oregon School Board Members of Color Caucus, we join many other lawmakers and elected officials in calling on Commissioner Shull to resign immediately.

To all the students and families in Clackamas County and beyond targeted by Commissioner Shull's rhetoric, we stand with you and take our roles very seriously in providing a safe environment for all, as well as equitable representation and treatment towards every member of our communities. We stand together as a Caucus and continue to commit to protect and uplift all of the people we represent, and to speak out against racism, hate, bigotry and other forms of intolerance that have no place in our State.

Signed,
