Re: Superintendents Board Report

Updates

- Christine and I joined Matt and Moss at a teacher evaluation training this past month. We will attend four more days of the training this school year. This is a requirement from the State of Idaho to complete the training course during each recertification cycle. It counts towards the required six credits in a five-year window for recertification.
- Efforts are ramping up to put together a new funding formula from the Idaho Association of School Administrators. This plan will be shared with legislators before the next legislative session. The last funding formula process pitted districts against each other and we're trying to avoid that this go around.
