RE: Gifted & Talented Pilot Project Proposal

Project Title: Honor Research Project Course

Implementation: Spring Semester 2015

Project Scope: Piloting for up to 10 students with a commitment of 10-15 hours of faculty time for each student.

Project Description: In order to support our gifted and talented students, we are proposing to create a ½ credit honors research project that students can work on under the supervision of a faculty advisor. Interested students would complete an application that would describe their project, identify their faculty advisor, identify a community mentor, and describe how their project will be presented. Student projects would need to be approved by the principal in order to receive credit. All projects would have to be presented to a school/community panel at the end of the semester in receive credit and assign a course grade for the project.

Project Cost: Faculty advisors would supervise the student and receive a stipend.
