Good morning,

I would like to purchase this instrument. Could you make a school board doc, or I can as well.

Thank you! Could you send me a bid with just the Yamaha? Once I get it, I'll start the approval process so we can get it ordered!

Josh,

I had the store prep the quote for me based on my experience with middle school bass trombone players.

- A. The Conn is a fine instrument. However, compared to the other two, I would be concerned about its consistency in overall manufacturing quality and tuning.
- B. The Shires is a double trigger that requires the middle schooler to learn how to use the independent rotors to best utilize the different keys and maximize slide use. This is likely too much for a middle schooler to learn if he has not mastered a regular F attachment trombone in previous years.
- C. The Yamaha is my recommendation. Slide consistency, slotting of partials and price value. This is Yamaha's introductory bass trombone, which, in my opinion, is the best intermediate bass trombone on the market.

Thanks Josh,

Tim
