

LEADING FOR LEARNING

Sheridan School District

- ▶ Leading for Learning is an initiative of Chalkboard Project that aims to enhance the leadership skills of current central office administrators across Oregon. In 2013, Chalkboard Project commissioned the Distinguished Leaders Council to develop recommendations based on national research, best practices, and a candid appraisal of Oregon's current practices in leader preparation. Chalkboard launched the first cohort of Leading for Learning for current leaders in January 2015 in partnership with the Center for Educational Leadership (CEL) at the University of Washington.

LEADING FOR LEARNING

- ▶ The goal of the program is to empower central office administrators with the skills of supervision and support of school principals to drive significant gains in student achievement.
- ▶ I applied for and was accepted into cohort 3
- ▶ It will take me out of the district for 7 days spread out over the year

- ▶ I will work closely with the building administrators
- ▶ We will visit other schools and have other leaders visit our schools
- ▶ It is important for us to engage with the educational community around the state
