BES Orientation

August 21, BES staff had their welcome back-setting the tone orientation in a lodge on the playground. Staff found it an easier way to slide into the new school year by being outside in the fresh air. We used the book Power and Place by Vine Deloria and Daniel Wildcat as reference to Indigenous learning and education. We also used the lodge as an analogy for our classrooms. We modeled in the lodge protocols, routines and procedures which will transfer over to their classrooms.

ELA & Math-

We are setting the routines and procedures for our workshop style teaching for both ELA and Math settings. This takes 10 days to fully implement the process. Teachers are working great with their classrooms to teach students expectations.

WE are just getting into the swing of school and will be able to report more next month!
