Hi Andrea –

I am happy to answer your questions about our board self-evaluation. We administer the survey (which is 80 questions) to all board members, who take it individually and anonymously through Survey Monkey. This takes about 20 minutes. The data is then compiled by us into a report, which we send to the board before the facilitated meeting so they can review and prepare.

At the meeting, we go over the report, we bring our analysis of the report, and we facilitate a conversation resulting in the board developing a couple professional development goals for itself for the next year. These are typically in alignment with the board's strategic plan (or district goals), but are meant to focus on board operations and growth.

The session itself takes about 90 minutes (but can be up to 2 hours). The cost is $875 plus travel (mileage and travel time at $97.50/hr).

Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Thank you!
