Re: Celina Development North, LLC

Question: Follow up is provided in response to Trustee Hendricks' question regarding scholarships from Celina Development North, LLC (easement approvals).

Answer:

The storm drainage system being extended to the easement at the southwest corner of the college property benefits the college property. As the College's consulting engineers, RLK Engineering, Inc. requested, this drainage system is sized to convey the fully developed 100 year runoff from the college property draining to this point.

Therefore, storm water detention will not be required for future development within this particular drainage basin. As the extension of the easement is to the college's benefit, it does not seem an ideal circumstance wherein to request scholarship funding.
