Re: Instructional Materials Allotment Funding: 2014-2015 K-12 Science Adoption

Comments:

The science instructional materials adoption process included three separate committees, each led by an assistant principal. The elementary materials adoption committee consisted of the 9 science content specialists, representing each campus and each grade level, and the district's head librarian. This committee was chaired by Angie Hux who also represented the bilingual and dual language programs. The middle school committee included six middle school science educators evenly distributed across campuses and grade levels. This committee was chaired by Brandon McGill. The high school committee included two representatives from biology, two from chemistry, two from physics, one representative of biological sciences electives, one representative of chemical sciences electives and one representative of earth sciences electives and a high school librarian. Educators from both CHS and NTH@C served on the committee, which was chaired by Jeremy Varnell.

A rubric was utilized to assess the alignment of the instructional materials with the Coppell ISD Learning Framework.

Budget Impact:

The recommended instructional materials for each grade level/course will be purchased with funds from the Instructional Materials Allotment.

Recommendation:

Below are our recommendations for science instructional materials for the 2014-2015 school year:
