An employee was rear ended by a vehicle traveling at a high speed on Tuesday, May 9th while working in the field. The employee was taken by ambulance and treated at a local hospital. Due to injuries, the employee was off work May 10th-16th. The employee's doctor released the employee to return to work with restrictions on May 17th. Workman's comp has a waiting period before they will compensate injured employees. The injured employee needs to be off 7 workdays, and on the 8th day off they pay for the 1st and 8th day off, then if off the 9th day they pay the 2nd and the 9th day off etc. The employee used 34.6 hours of their PTO and is seeking reimbursement of 34.6 hours back into their PTO bank.
