Good afternoon AIRSS members,

Rural issues like the digital divide, lack of funding, and food insecurity are beginning to get more national attention because COVID-19 is bringing them to light in a new way. We would like to share with you an article posted by USA Today that talks about the impact COVID-19 has had on rural schools, including highlights from our very own Cobden CUSD #17. While it is not ideal to have these issues in the first place, we are glad to see them taken seriously in a national publication. Please read the article using the link below.

All the best,

Dave Ardrey
