Challenges:

- We are constantly struggling with improving attendance with this population. It seems that as soon as we provide the support and resources to one student that allows them to focus on school then another student is faced with life obstacles such as grief, abuse, trauma or lack of basic needs that cause them to miss school.
- We are excited to embrace the strategies and resources offered through the Literacy and Math grants, however finding the time to authentically prepare PD, gather data and model these practices is challenging, I would like to increase Jason Kranes responsibility and workload from 30 hours a week to 35 hours to help us meet these goals.
