The second two (2) sessions will focus on preventative strategies and the systems needed to support them, specific to the practices identified in Prevent Teach Reinforce - for Young Children (PTR-YC) including the systems work needed to implement these practices with fidelity. The second session will work through the process of Prevent Teach Reinforce (PTR): The School-Based Model of Individualized Positive Behavior Support, first and second editions and Prevent Teach Reinforce: for Young Children (PTR-YC), a systematic, structured process for supporting students with challenging behaviors that have not been resolved satisfactorily with classroom, supplemental, and school-wide behavior management systems and therefore need individualized-intensive positive behavior support.
