What does “Our Future Is Public” mean?

- Our public schools belong to everyone
- They give all students opportunities to learn and grow
- They help shape our future

When we say, “Our Future Is Public” we mean that public schools help every student learn, grow, and succeed. Our future is something we all share.

A blue parallelogram and a light green parallelogram are positioned on the left side of the slide, overlapping each other and the dark blue background.

Why public schools matter to us.

A Public school is more than a place where students learn. School is a place where we discover who we are, build friendships, and learn how to work together.

How the School Board Supports Our Future

Because of your Leadership, we have: -
Dedicated teachers and staff
- Safe and welcoming schools
- Learning materials and technology - Opportunities in academics, arts and athletics.

What we learn beyond books

In public school, we learn more than reading and math. We learn how to be responsible, respectful, and ready for the real world.

Our Hopes for the Future

Our dreams are big. We hope to graduate prepared for college, or careers ahead. We hope to help our community in many ways. Public education helps us to reach those dreams
