FLAS COMMUNITY EDUCATION NOVEMBER 2016

FUN FACTS

- In 1987, President Ronald Reagan proclaimed National Community Education Day!
- FLAS Community Ed is offering free classes to show appreciation to participants, volunteers and staff the week of November 7.

FLAS Community Education Celebrates National Community Education Day!

National Community Education Day reminds us that public education is a community project and the lifelong mission of education involves everyone in the community.

In 1987, President Ronald Reagan proclaimed National Community Education Day. In his proclamation, he “invited parents, educators, students, state and local officials and all Americans to take part in activities that recognize and show appreciation for the role of community resources in education”.

In honor of National Community Education Day, FLAS Community Education will be offering free activities the week of November 7-11. Community Education staff will be visiting classes and programs during the week handing out thank you cards to teachers, coaches, volunteers and participants.

Free Classes Available Nov 7 - 11

Community Education proudly takes advantage of this national recognition to thank staff, volunteers and community members. All are invited to participate in free activities.

Register soon so you can experience our high-quality instructors, comfortable atmosphere and great opportunities. For more information, please visit us at www.flaschools.org/ce or call (651) 982-8110.
