Principal's General Narrative:

The Jr. High teachers and students have been working diligently to take care of the state testing requirements. The teachers have also been very professional in making sure that the students stay on task with the learning that is still needed even though the students have the "end of the year doldrums" as far as learning is concerned.

The busy end of year mode is in high gear as everyone works to finish up the activities and programs that are in place. The professional staff, para-professional staff, office staff, and various support staffs continue to do a great job in their particular areas of our school program.

Respectfully submitted,

George T. "Stoney" Burks
