Parent-Teacher Conferences

This year, our parent-teacher conferences for quarters one and two have seen an incredible increase in engagement, with over 40 families attending—almost doubling the participation from previous years! The feedback has been overwhelmingly positive, with comments like, 'He is gaining life skills and has been stepping into leadership opportunities,' and 'She is really excelling and loving school.'

Comments like these—and none negative—demonstrate the growing collaboration between families and teachers, fostering a supportive environment where students thrive both academically and personally. This increased engagement underscores the shared commitment to our students' success. Of course, it doesn't hurt when our school cook and culinary chef provides a spread as amazing as this one!"

SCHOOL CULTURE & CLIMATE

The RISE Recognition Program and Rollin Store

Our character recognition program, RISE, has continued to inspire and encourage both students and staff, generating numerous positive comments and RISE cards. This initiative highlights the core values we strive to embody as a school community and further strengthens the connections between our students, families, and educators.

And our 'Rollin Store' rolled out once again, sparking excitement and generating strong sales. The student council has done a stellar job managing every aspect—from overseeing the store and handling deposits to ensuring smooth execution. Their hard work and leadership have made this initiative a resounding success, showcasing their dedication and entrepreneurial spirit.

Spirit Week, Advisory Challenges and School Clubs

This coming week, our student council has planned an exciting holiday-themed spirit week, featuring different 'dress' days and fun competitions with prizes. They've gone above and beyond to build anticipation, promoting the events through lively morning announcements and creative posters around the school. It's another great example of their leadership and ability to bring the school community together

Our advisory challenges continue to foster a spirit of fun, community, and collaboration among students and staff. From paper airplane contests to trivia competitions and frisbee challenges, these activities bring everyone together, creating lasting memories and strengthening our school culture.

Principal/CTE Report

Finally, our clubs are creating a strong sense of belonging while motivating students to maintain academic eligibility. The D&D club has quickly become a highlight of the week for several students, offering a space to connect, strategize, and have fun. Looking ahead, we're excited to launch a music club in the new quarter, providing even more opportunities for students to explore their interests and build community.
