

MHS School Board Report November 2025

Attendance

Attendance is hovering around 88% for our students. Most of this is due to the three activities happening currently. However, there has been a sickness going through the school

Our current enrollment is at 99 students

Issues Within the High School

Things are continuing to migrate to the regular business of school. I feel like there has been a strong start to the second quarter. We have had an increase in tardies as the days get shorter. We also have had many students traveling for school activities that can make it hard to attend on off weeks.

We have many events between now and Christmas. DDF, basketball starting, home basketball, and MAP testing.

I will be out to attend a funeral in Kansas from the 22nd and return on the 1st of December.

Celebrations-

Our scuba students have been able to be in the pool. Our first dives in the ocean have begun this week.

Our staff continues to develop what an RTI program will look like at the high school. We will begin to offer academic and SEL interventions through our high school programming.

All of our programs continue to see growth in participation in all activities. We still have a very high level of engagement in the activities that we offer.

Welding has been developing students that can weld at a functional level.

A big shout out to Ashley and all that were involved in getting new copiers/printers in the schools. We were in great need to accommodate students that travel.
