Quarterly Position Report

November 30, 2025

US yields fell across the curve in the three-month period ending November 30, with the largest declines occurring on securities maturing in less than one year. On October 1, the US government shut down as Congress failed to pass appropriations for the 2026 fiscal year. The shutdown was the longest in history, lasting 43 days until November 12. At the October 29 Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) meeting, the committee lowered rates by 25 basis points (bps) to 3.75% to 4.00%. There were two dissenters on the committee, but on opposite sides. One dissenter was in favor of a 50-bp cut. The other dissenter was in favor of no cut. Chair Jay Powell's press conference was somewhat surprising. Several times during the press conference, he said that a rate cut in December was not a foregone conclusion. In one instance, he used the phrase "far from it." While future cut expectation changed significantly during the period, by the end of November, the market was expecting a rate cut of 25 bps at the December 10 meeting.
