

Agenda Item C - Curriculum Spotlight

Model United Nations

One of the many purposes of Model UN is to give students the opportunity to explore different cultures and global points of view through the application of advanced research processes. Each region and country of the world has its own political and economic systems and its own culture. Focusing on those characteristics, students learn about the way in which countries operate and the influences they have on the world.

Students are also given the opportunity to cooperate and collaborate with a variety of people with different thinking and learning styles through competition with other schools. Through the UN process, students get to experience authentic problem solving by solving world issues and debating them at a mock UN simulation.