I received a response back from Laura Duffey, the school forest coordinator.

She said that if the Indus school closes then the land will be transferred back to the state and the money generated from the sale will also go to the state. That will have to be added as a contingency in the contract.

Hi Jeremy,

I don't think there is any harm in opening the bids, especially since it has not been determined whether or not the school will be closing.

However, the bid opener should announce that in the event that the school does close the sale would become void. That can be communicated and added to the contract when it gets awarded.

I reached out to the school forest coordinator but she is out of the office doing field visits this week and I'm not sure if we will receive a response prior to the school board meeting.

Thanks,

Kirby

Hi Kirby--

I am sure you have most likely heard, our School Board is in the process of looking at the possibility of closing the Indus school for the 2023-2024 school year.

I believe we planned to open up the Timber Sale bids on May 10th. My question to you would be should we still open up the bids given the uncertainty of what might happen with the school?
