Recommendation(s):

The recommendation is to approve Carnegie Learning as the 6-12 Math Core Resource for West Allis-West Milwaukee School District. The districtwide committee has followed a thorough process through the WAWM Curriculum Review and Adoption Cycle to make this recommendation to the board. This process included evaluation of current instruction program, core resource, and student data; research and review of new curricular resources; piloting of curricular resources by all teachers within the committee; feedback from a diverse group of stakeholders involved in the pilot; and building consensus as a districtwide committee.

Purpose:

The purpose of this recommendation is to ensure all of our teachers have high quality instructional materials to engage our students in learning. The WAWM Curriculum Review and Adoption Cycle is a predictable cycle that allows for instructional materials to be updated in a manner that is strategic and fiscally responsible. This adoption has been planned in collaboration with our business team, and the financial impact of this eight-year adoption, including professional development, coaching, and programmatic support is $985,183.43 (including shipping and handling). Carnegie Learning has been independently reviewed, in addition to our thorough process, so that we can ensure the resource will support high quality instruction and increase learning for our students.
