ADDITIONAL INFORMATION AND/OR BACK-UP:

We are pleased to recognize that Frostwood Elementary student, David Jung, was selected by National Math Stars (NMS) as one of the 57 exceptional students from Texas to take part in its core program. NMS supports high-performing math students beginning in elementary school.

Launched in 2023, NMS identifies mathematically extraordinary second- and third-graders and provides long-term, individualized support to help them maximize their talents. Applicants complete a multi-stage evaluation process that assesses each student's mathematical aptitude, eagerness for deeper STEM exploration, and the program's potential impact on their trajectory.

Congratulations, David Jung!
