YOUR FUTURE AWAITS

We are excited to invite you to a career discussion with an experienced fire service leader. Sean Hendricks. This session will give students the opportunity to learn firsthand about careers in the fire service, including daily responsibilities, training pathways, leadership development, and long-term career growth.

Our guest will share real-world insights, lessons learned from the field, and advice for students who are considering or preparing for a career in firefighting or emergency services. Students will also have the chance to ask questions and engage in an open discussion.

This is a valuable opportunity to hear from a professional who has dedicated their career to serving the community and leading others under pressure. We encourage all interested students to attend and prepare with questions.
