December Board Report Dr. Keri Launius, Executive Director of Academics

This report provides an update on the key efforts undertaken by the Academics Department over the past month. Our academic leadership efforts have focused on strengthening instructional coherence, aligning district systems, and building the internal capacity needed to support high-quality teaching and learning across all Hitchcock ISD campuses.

We began the month by participating in the Region 4 Step-Back Meeting, where we reviewed our district's progress on the Strong Foundations Implementation (SFI/LASO3) plan. Using campus PLC artifacts, walk-through trends, and principal implementation data, we reflected on what is working well and identified the areas where we will continue to support campuses. A major outcome of this collaborative review was the completion of our OER Transition Plan, written to fully align with our SFI goals and prepared for board approval.

We have focused on deepening instructional alignment districtwide. By working closely with campus principals and instructional leaders, we created our new Instructional Foundations—a common set of research-based instructional practices (RBIs) that will guide lesson internalization, PLC work, and daily instructional delivery. These foundations will serve as an anchor as we build consistent, rigorous Tier 1 instruction across all classrooms.

Our District Education Committee (DEC) meeting provided another important opportunity for collaborative input. The committee engaged in meaningful discussions around the instructional calendar, updates to the District of Innovation (DOI) plan, and this year's Results Driven Accountability (RDA) report. We also developed actionable next steps to strengthen support for our Other Special Populations (OSP), including our homeless student population, ensuring both compliance and student-centered planning.

Throughout the month, our team has also been actively supporting campuses as they administer the district-created 18-week benchmark assessments. This support includes helping campus leaders analyze student performance trends, ensuring assessment conditions reflect TEA expectations, and using results to inform upcoming PLCs, intervention plans, and lesson internalization cycles.

Finally, we officially launched our Academic Support Team (AST). Our weekly meetings, paired with our first districtwide AST calibration walks, allowed us to build shared expectations, strengthen alignment. The AST team also partnered closely with campus leadership this month to co-develop the agenda for our districtwide Professional Development Day on January 5th, ensuring that the training is rooted in instructional needs and aligned to our foundational practices and Bluebonnet implementation goals.

December Board Report Sarah Saenz, Curriculum Coordinator

During my first week, I conducted walk-throughs across all K–5 campuses to gather baseline data on our current academic performance and the implementation of Bluebonnet. I also met with several teachers and administrators to discuss strengths, identify implementation needs, and capture early successes.

After visiting the campuses, I met with the Bluebonnet Product Advisors to review the academic trends they are observing while supporting classroom teachers. Our discussions centered on how and when teachers engage in lesson internalization and the impact this has on overall lesson delivery. We have met multiple times since our initial meeting to analyze the collected data and use it to design a meaningful and effective professional development for teachers on January 5th.

Our Academic Support Team (AST) met with the Bluebonnet Implementation Advisor to review and analyze the Strong Foundations Implementation (SFI) framework. Together, we examined the key components necessary for successful implementation of the Bluebonnet curriculum and reflected on how these components are currently being executed with fidelity in Hitchcock ISD. During this process, we collaborated on strategies to further strengthen and align Bluebonnet implementation across the district.

I have been supporting our team in the development of the district-designed 18-week benchmark assessments by collaborating with teachers and stakeholders to ensure that the assessments accurately reflect and measure student learning while aligning with TEA standards.

During the final weeks of December, I will be collaborating with PLCs and campus leaders to gather additional data that will inform how I can best support the implementation of Bluebonnet, strengthen instructional practices, reinforce foundational skills, and help ensure that every student in Hitchcock ISD receives the high-quality instruction they deserve.

Athletics Monthly Report

FOOTBALL

The Hitchcock Bulldogs football team fell to Hardin in the second round of the playoffs, ending their season with a 7-win record.

The senior class graduates with an impressive 37-11 record over four years — the best four-year stretch in program history. Coaches praised the outgoing seniors as a great group while noting a strong nucleus of young talent returning on both offense and defense.

District 12-3A proved its strength as fellow district members Columbus and Yoakum both advanced to the regional finals, further cementing the district's reputation as the toughest in Texas 3A football.

BASKETBALL

The Hitchcock Lady Bulldogs basketball team, the only 3A school in the prestigious Peggy Whitley Tournament hosted by Clear Creek ISD, shocked larger programs by winning the entire event.

Despite being the smallest school in a field filled with 6A powerhouses, Hitchcock defeated Humble, Pasadena Memorial, Alvin Shadow Creek, Clear Creek, and clinched the championship with a victory over Fort Bend Hightower — a 2024 6A-DII state finalist.

Senior Slyiah Johnson earned Tournament MVP honors for her outstanding performance.

Coaches Richardson and Sowell expressed immense pride in the team's effort and are excited for the start of district play following the Christmas break.

SPRING SPORTS

As the Christmas holidays approach, Hitchcock Bulldogs athletics is gearing up for a busy spring semester. Both boys' and girls' basketball teams will dive into district play immediately after the break, with powerlifting, baseball, softball, and track & field all starting up in late January.

The program has high hopes for powerlifting and track athletes to qualify for regional and state meets, while baseball and softball aim to make significant strides and contend for playoff spots in a challenging district.
