

Each year, the Texas FFA Association holds a statewide Elementary Coloring Contest, during National FFA Week, to encourage chapters to connect with local elementary schools. Our Hallsville FFA chapter officers thought this could be a great way to advocate for agriculture and celebrate FFA Week at our elementary schools.

We hosted the contest at each of the elementary schools locally, and put together a panel of judges to select our winner to submit to the State Association for this contest. We submitted Emili Romaniuk's drawing from North Elementary where she went on to win the State Elementary Coloring Contest for her grade level.
