Summary of 2011 Accountability System Changes

- In 2011 use of the TPM (Texas Projection Measure) in the state and federal accountability rating systems has been discontinued.
- In 2011 the TAKS Met Standard indicator will include all TAKS, TAKS Accommodated (TAKS-A) TAKS Modified (TAKS-M) and TAKS Alternate (TAKS-ALT) results for the first time. These assessments are being included in the commended performance indicator.
- Beginning with the 2011 ratings, a new indicator—Commended Performance—has been incorporated in the rating system. Districts and campuses are required to meet the CP standard of greater than or equal to 15% CP to be recognized and greater than or equal to 25% CP to be exemplary.
- TAKS Standards for 2011 Academically Acceptable are 70% for reading/ELA, writing, and social studies; 65% for mathematics, and 60% for science. These standards represent increases of five percentage points to the Academically Acceptable 2010 standard in both mathematics and science.
- State Accountability, Federal Accountability, the Academic Excellence Indicator System (AEIS), and related reports will use the federal definitions of race and ethnicity for all 2010-2011 indicators.
- Beginning with the 2011 ratings, a new indicator—the English Language Learner Progress Indicator—has been incorporated into the rating system. Campuses and districts must meet a standard of 60% on the ELL Progress indicator in order to attain a Recognized or Exemplary rating. Only campuses and districts which have at least 30 current and monitored limited English proficient (LEP) students tested are evaluated.
- Grade 7-8 annual dropout rate standard has been reduced to 1.6%, a decrease of 0.2% from the 2010 school year.
