Strategy 2: Crockett will offer after-school tutoring after NWEA MAP testing is complete at each interval, providing small-group, mastery-focused instruction for students performing below grade level. This instruction will be reinforced by i-Ready personalized learning pathways that address individual needs. Strategy's Expected Result/Impact: Accelerated Skill Growth - Students below grade level close gaps faster through small-group, mastery-focused instruction tailored to MAP performance data. Improved NWEA MAP RIT Scores - Students demonstrate measurable growth between assessment windows due to targeted practice on identified weak areas. Higher STAAR Readiness - Mastery of Power Standards and targeted SEs translates to improved STAAR Reading and Math performance. Personalized Learning Gains - i-Ready lessons directly address each student's learning path, strengthening foundational skills and building confidence. Increased Impact in Targeted Instruction - Small-group setting allows teachers to deliver highly focused, immediate feedback and correction. Better Data Application - Teachers use MAP and i-Ready reports to design sessions that precisely address the skills each student needs. Higher Student Engagement - Smaller settings and relevant content keep students more involved and motivated to improve. Reduction in Below-Grade-Level Population - Fewer students remain in the "Urgent Intervention" or "Intervention" bands on MAP by year's end. Consistent Support Between Core and Tutoring - Tutoring sessions reinforce what is taught in the regular classroom and COLT time, ensuring continuity. Evidence of Differentiation for IB Authorization - i-Ready's personalized pathways and small-group tutoring provide clear examples of IB Approaches to Learning and differentiated instruction in practice.
