

Welcome to the New Tech Annual Conference 2013!

Build Bridges with Us!

We are pleased to announce our keynote: Sam Chaltain! Click here to learn more!

July 16 – 18, 2013 – New Orleans, Louisiana

This year's conference will bring together new and veteran school staff, partners, coaches and others to share strategies, celebrate successes and strengthen the New Tech community.

At the New Tech Annual Conference in July, we will provide participants with ways to think about students' needs through the lens of Building Bridges. We'll examine ways in which Building Bridges can present itself in the processes that students engage in, and the work that they produce.

Throughout NTAC 2013, attendees will have opportunities to join enriching discussions, participate in strategy demonstrations, and work product-oriented workshops intended to help teachers and directors increase the frequency of Building Bridges on your campus and in your classroom.

We look forward to this opportunity to learn from each other as we work toward a common vision to create consistent Bridge Building opportunities for all New Tech Network students.

We build bridges everyday through community, education, student engagement and more and by building bridges, we can help to make the bridge builders of tomorrow. We look forward to hearing how you build bridges.

Announcing Keynote Sam Chaltain!

We are excited to announce that Sam Chaltain will be launching NTAC 2013 this year! Sam is a DC-based writer and education activist. He works with schools, school districts, and public and private sector companies to help them create healthy, high-functioning learning environments.