Time passes. Opportunities fade. Self-disgust. -Jayce Melecio

Words I can't say, choking me.

A stack of approximately 15 books of various colors and thicknesses is arranged on a wooden surface. A white rectangular tag with rounded corners is tied to the stack with a piece of twine. The tag features the text "WORDS HAVE POWER" in bold, black, sans-serif capital letters. To the right of the main stack, several more books are leaning against it, including one with a bright yellow and red patterned cover. The background is a textured teal or turquoise wall.
