B. School Report

Springville Elementary School – Robin Kobrowski

Principal Kobrowski reported that Springville has over 1,180 students enrolled with over 14% receiving ELL services and 14% receiving free and reduced lunch.

Successes

- Expeditionary Learning (EL Education) – EL Education is an approach that promotes rigorous and engaging curriculum, inquiry-based teaching techniques, and a school culture that teaches compassion and good citizenship. At the heart of EL Education Schools are learning expeditions, which are interdisciplinary units aligned with state standards and district learning targets. The EL approach is experimental and project-based, involving students in original research, including field studies and experts, to create high-quality products for audience beyond the classroom.
- Character Education – A foundation of the EL work at Springville is for all students to develop character traits related to success in school and beyond. The five character traits at Springville (responsibility, collaboration, perseverance, integrity and compassion) are modeled and taught in and out of the classroom and help support consistent expectations for behavior throughout the school.
- Community and Collaboration – A strong part of the Springville culture and traditions are ongoing collaboration and partnerships with the community. Within the context of learning at expeditions at Springville, field experts often help teach students.

Challenges

- Two campuses- Due to growth and overcrowding for the 2016-2017 school year, grades 6-8 were moved to the Timberland site. Additionally, the EGC Program was relocated to another elementary school. Students, staff, and community are looking forward to being on one campus in the fall.
- Inconsistent achievement – While ELL students have made gains in the last two years, students with disabilities and economically disadvantaged students continue to lag behind other students at Springville K-8.

Goals

- Culture of Care/Schoolwide Behavior- In order to address the current behaviors related to trauma and mental health, Springville is one of 10 pilot schools for the 2017-2018 school year in the Culture of Care district-wide work. A school team has been formed and has received initial training and will continue to attend training while also helping to train staff at Springville. This will be in conjunction to work on the schoolwide behavior system and work on intervention models. The Early Release Model is expected to help support this effort.
- Literacy – In alignment with district work in English Language Arts, Springville will continue work on the 90-minute literacy block with a specific focus on reading and writing workshop models.

Questions/Comments from the Board:

How long are the daily classroom meetings and what is discussed? Typically, classroom meetings go from 5-10 minutes depending on the activity. Students come together in a group or circle with the teacher. It gives time to build community in the classroom.

What kind of strategies are being used in your trauma center for students exhibiting behavioral issues? There is a focus on students who have had adverse childhood experiences. The current programs are being expanded and learning how to coach adults who work with these students is also something that is being worked on.

What is the expeditionary learning process? It is an inquiry based model. It promotes action through hands on and project based learning.

C. Financial Update – Claire Hertz

Claire Hertz reported that the fund balance of the projected fund balance percentage of actual revenue is 8:4% of total revenue. The Board will be asked to adopt the 2017-2018 budget prior to the June 30, 2017 deadline even though the state legislature has not yet completed work on the school funding for the upcoming 2017-2018 school year. A supplemental budget will be presented as needed once the legislature has completed their work.

D. Title IX Internal Review – David Williams

David Williams provided Board members with a brief background on Title IX standards. Given a strong desire by the Beaverton School Board and Administration to ensure that students are being appropriately served the Beaverton School District has begun an internal review of the Title IX compliance.

To ensure compliance with Title IX the district is using two key approaches. The first is a set of trainings that will be tailored to ensure that key individuals in the District are fully versed on what Title IX is and what true compliance means. The second approach is a targeted internal review of the district's high school athletic programs.

Given ta Title IX is broader than simply athletic parity the training component is critical to compliance A number of trainings are being implemented across the organization that are targeted to specific circumstances. By implementing a broad spectrum, training program the knowledge base of the district will be reset as a way of advancing the culture of thought but will also fulfill very specific Title IX requirements.

The second main component of the Title IX work is an internal review of the district's high school athletic programs. Athletics are often the focal point of Title IX questions and as such a full review of compliance status is warranted. This work is being done through a partnership with the Oregon Department of Education (ODE) and the Oregon School Activities Association (OSAA).

Questions/Comments from the Board:

Pleased with the fact that there will be a designated Title IX go to person in each building.

How long is the training? The initial baseline training is a total of 8 hours broken into 4 hour blocked sections.

- E. District Complaint Process – David Williams Maureen Wheeler and Camellia Osterink
An internal review team composed of General Counsel, Public Communications Officer, and Administrator for Government Relations was formed to conduct a review of general complaint policies. Processes and timelines, complaint forms, and website accessibility.

The Board is currently engaged in a complete policy that included all complaint policies. Notably, Policy KL is being revised slightly to increase clarity as KL is the primary generic complaint policy for the district.

Most complaint processes and timelines are contained with board policy, and as such the focus has been on providing clarification within policy, through greater specificity of response timeliness and where a complaint should be directed.

The internal team will continue to meet to further refine the process and procedures as they get implemented. The team will continue to focus with an eye to customer service and user friendliness as the Board completes its policy re-write.

Questions/Comments from the Board:

Thank you for working to streamline the process and making it more user friendly.

Members of the Board often get complaints by email. Does this mean we will start referring people to use the complaint form once its rolled out? No, the email itself will be considered the complaint form.

The Board suggested that the complaint form clarify the implication of requesting an anonymous or confidential complaint.
