Ron Hill, Chair
Burnsville-Eagan-Savage School District
100 River Ridge Court
Burnsville, MN 55337

Dear Chair Hill,

It is with a mixture of emotions that I write this letter to officially submit my resignation and notice of retirement as Superintendent of the Burnsville-Eagan-Savage School District. My last day of employment will be June 30, 2013.

School leadership has been a major part of my life during nearly 35 years of service as a public school educator. Pursuing equity for all students has been a passionate goal of mine as I have successfully served as a teacher, principal and school superintendent. While my retirement plans continue to unfold, I will remain committed to the mission and goals of equity adopted by the Board of Education.

I want to thank the Board, staff and community for the opportunity to serve as superintendent. The Burnsville-Eagan-Savage School District is an outstanding school district and I know the dedicated work aligned with the Board's Strategic RoadMap will continue.

Sincerely,

September 20, 2012

FROM: Chris Lindholm

DATE: September 13, 2012

RE: Approval of the 2011-12 Annual Report on Curriculum, Instruction, and Student Achievement

RECOMMENDATION: The Board of Education approve the 2011-12 Annual Report on Curriculum, Instruction and Student Achievement for publication.

Minnesota statute requires all school districts to approve and publish an annual report on curriculum and student achievement by October 1 each fall. With the help of the Communications Department, the Teaching and Learning Team has prepared the report included in your board packets. The report was shared and discussed with the Student Achievement and Systems Improvement advisory council on Tuesday, September 11 and incorporates feedback from that meeting. The report will be posted on the district website after it has been approved.

In addition to the written report, a public presentation will be shared at the board meeting highlighting 2011-12 district wide student achievement results, curriculum development and professional development. Upcoming plans to inform the board about how this district work is facilitated at the building level will be included.

Curriculum Committee

Community is involved in improving academic performance

The Student Achievement and Systems Improvement Advisory Council (SASIAC) ensures active community participation in planning and improving instructional programs affecting student achievement.

Members gain knowledge about curriculum, professional development efforts, instructional programs, and learning assessments used in classrooms throughout the district.

The council is composed of parents, students, teachers, administrators, and community members, and to the extent possible, reflects the diversity of the district and its schools.

The council's primary roles are to review and receive information about curriculum, instruction and assessment, and to make recommendations to the administration about districtwide educational standards (consistent with the district curriculum goals and outcomes, and state requirements), assessments and program evaluations.

Council activities may include the following:

- Reviewing improvement plans for subjects which have undergone program evaluation;
- Reviewing the district's policies related to the Annual Report on Curriculum, Instruction and Student Achievement, and making recommendations to the Board of Education for revisions, if necessary;
- Reviewing the draft of the Annual Report on Curriculum, Instruction and Student Achievement, and recommending its adoption to the Board of Education, and

- Reviewing other curriculum-related issues and programs.

The council is made up of 11 parents and/or residents, six employees, two students, and the district's Directors of Curriculum, Instruction, and Student Information and Assessment.

Openings on the council will be advertised in district publications. The council will have at least three regular meetings each year, from September through May, from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Written, taught and tested curriculum focuses on achievement

The purpose of District 191’s curriculum design is to establish clear, valid and measurable standards that result in high achievement for all learners.

Curriculum design is the first step in achieving the School Board’s strategic direction of “increase[ing] student engagement and learning, dramatically reduc[ing] the achievement gap and improve[ing] the process of teaching and learning based on relevancy to students and results.”

Classroom instruction, assessment and response practices are being aligned with the goal of boosting student achievement.

The written curriculum provides teachers with the information they need to prepare lessons. It identifies the most essential skills to be taught to students along with what students are expected to master. District content standards and objectives come from a variety of sources including state, national and international standards and assessments.

The curriculum provides students with higher quality instruction at an appropriate level and ensures accountability. It uses multiple measurements (classroom, district, state and national tests) to assess student achievement and is used to make decisions about what and how students are learning the content.

District 191 uses a systematic, cyclical process. This process includes planning and creating a curriculum vision for each subject area, providing for districtwide analysis of instructional practice along with implementing and evaluating instructional materials.

The curriculum process is ongoing, but has two major steps: scope and sequence design, and curriculum guide design.

Scope and Sequence Design

Content and/or grade level committees use standards, assessments, and research to develop the scope and sequence. The scope and sequence outlines the content and skills students need to learn, how teachers will know the students have obtained mastery, and the types of situations in which the instruction should occur.

Curriculum Guide Design

Based on the scope and sequence documents, teachers create units of instruction and pacing guides, create assessment tools that enable them to determine students’ specific learning needs, and anticipate in professional development that is proven to increase student achievement. Part of the curriculum guide design also includes the selection of appropriate instructional materials.

Q: Is curriculum design something different from curriculum?

A: Curriculum design is the active phase of creating curriculum.

Curriculum is the resource designed by teachers to guide their work.

Teachers work on curriculum during the summer of 2012

Reflections on curriculum

By Kathy Funston, Director of Curriculum

This has been an exciting as well as challenging year. To look critically at what we teach, and what our students learn, we must have conversations about our philosophical approaches to teaching and get at the core of our own beliefs about education. These are not always easy conversations, but they are critical for our students' success.

In curriculum work this year, we are starting these conversations by using academic standards as a base. Our deeper understanding of standards, of how our students will be assessed on those standards, and of how our instructional practices should lead our students to mastery of the content in the standards has been a primary focus of our work this year.

We began our journey by developing units of instruction -- bundling standards into units so teaching could be paced throughout the year in a reasonable manner. The more teachers work with the units of instruction and look for learning activities that closely align with the standards, the clearer those learning objectives become.

As we continue working on our units, we also find or create assessments that let us know if a student is prepared for the learning, or has learned what we taught. We also add in those formative assessments that help us determine the path of our teaching. Those units of instruction become our guide, or our curriculum.

This kind of work ultimately leads to determining if the primary instructional resources we are using are aligned to our curriculum. If they are not, we need to determine what kind of instructional resources will be most accessible to students and serve as effective tools for teaching. Sometimes this is a textbook, sometimes a collection of resources, sometimes it is teacher produced.

Regardless of what instructional resources are used to teach the curriculum, ongoing professional development is an integral part of understanding the alignment of the materials and incorporating innovative teaching strategies that are effective in reaching the learning needs of all of our students.

Along with this cycle of deeply understanding what our students need to learn, other cycles occur that work in conjunction to this work. At each of our schools, teachers are meeting in collaborative teams to talk about what is being taught and what is working well and they are asking if their students are learning.

We may be at different places in our journey, but as educators, we are constantly striving for excellence -- not just from our students, but also from ourselves.

Why is a Curriculum Management System Important?

A curriculum must provide for consistency—or coordination. It must provide for continuity—or articulation. A curriculum must also provide for flexibility in adaptation as teachers interact with students.

(English, 1992)

A school district can improve curriculum design and delivery through the development of comprehensive curriculum management processes and a sound plan to implement that system. The purpose of a comprehensive curriculum management process is to establish a systematic process for curriculum development in all areas, to coordinate supporting functions for overall efficiency and effectiveness, and to devise a process to monitor and increase the likelihood of the delivery of planned curriculum.

Through curriculum management planning, a school district can achieve and maintain a quality, aligned curriculum that produces desired results. When the plan and its timelines are adhered to, the district is able to place quality curriculum in the hands of all teachers well in advance of State standards and assessment changes. Therefore, improved student achievement is more likely to occur despite State changes. This planning must address not only technology integration but also issues of students who are not mastering the learning objectives.

Once curriculum and assessments are designed, successful delivery occurs through classroom instruction that focuses on the mastery of the district's learning objectives by all students. Alignment of the written, taught and tested curriculum is essential if district staff are to be successful in raising student achievement to higher levels.

Improving the learning of all students is the ultimate goal of a quality curriculum management system. By analyzing what changes are needed, setting a clear time line, and clearly defining roles and responsibilities, the climate exists for all students to master essential concepts and skills. To ensure the written curriculum is the taught and assessed curriculum, curricula is developed and stored electronically for ease of access and editing by teachers in a Curriculum

Library. The Library includes information for teachers to know what learning targets are important, create "I can" statements for students to articulate their learning, assess learning in a variety of ways, and activities to differentiate learning. In 2011-12 secondary language arts, science, and mathematics collaboratively completed curriculum guide design work in the Curriculum Library. Elementary teachers worked in grade level collaborative groups to complete curriculum design work and select new instructional materials for mathematics that will be implemented in 2012-13.

This year, teachers will refine their curriculum guide work and develop common assessments to use in making decisions about what students are learning, how well they are learning the content, and what interventions are needed to either assist struggling students or provide enrichments for students who have already mastered the content. Secondary social studies teachers will begin the curriculum design work to incorporate the new Minnesota Academic Standards into their courses.

Curriculum Management System

Elementary teachers select new math instructional materials

Working collaboratively throughout the year, elementary teachers completed the curriculum design work that served as a basis for the selection of new mathematics instructional materials.

After a thorough analysis of the new Minnesota Academic Standards and other national and international measures, ISD 191 teachers overwhelmingly determined that the mathematics instructional materials selected in 2004-05 would not be adequate in helping our students successfully attain mastery of the new standards in 2012-13.

Through evaluations of multiple instructional programs, teachers selected Math in Focus® for kindergarten through fifth grade. These materials align with the Common Core and Minnesota Academic Standards and will provide a strong foundation in mathematics so that students are college and real world ready.

Math in Focus® will be implemented in kindergarten through fifth grade. Math in Focus® is the U.S. edition of Singapore's top-ranking math program that follows the teaching framework developed by the Singapore Ministry of Education. It emphasizes concept mastery, a concrete-to-pictorial-to-abstract approach, metacognitive reasoning, and the use of model drawing to solve and justify problems.

Instructional elements of Math in Focus® include:

- A focused and coherent syllabus. Math in Focus introduces fewer topics in each grade, but teaches them to a greater depth. Topics are taught to mastery, so they build from year to year across grade levels without repetition.
- A visual and balanced approach. Math in Focus is highly visual, following a concrete-to-pictorial-to-abstract progression.
- A focus on numbers and operations. Math in Focus is sequenced in a way that ensures students develop and maintain strong number sense. Students spend the majority of the first half of the year studying numbers. This provides the foundation necessary to move on to more complex and abstract thinking.

- An emphasis on problem solving using model-drawing. Math in Focus utilizes model-drawing strategies that help students solve both routine and non-routine problems.
- A recognition of the importance of attitudes and metacognition. The Singapore Ministry of Education's mathematics framework emphasizes the importance of attitude and the ability to self-monitor while problem solving to achieve success in math. Math in Focus provides students with the tools they need to break down complex concepts and problems, which in turn develops positive attitudes. This framework aligns with a strong base of foundational research and has also been proven to produce exceptional results both internationally and within the United States.

Students in sixth grade will be moving into a middle school math program, Mathematics Grade 6, which aligns with the current instructional materials used in our junior high schools.

ProPay re-emerges and aligns to district's strategic goals

The Burnsville Education Association and District 191 approved a revised 2012-13 ProPay plan last spring focused on better aligning the plan to the district's mission, vision, core values and strategic directions as outlined in the district's Strategic Roadmap.

ProPay is District 191's name for Q-Comp, a state program intended to augment the implementation of teacher appraisals, professional development, and continuous improvement processes focused on increasing student achievement.

The new plan is tightly aligned to District 191's third strategic direction: "Develop staff capacity to engage in the Mission and Vision work of the District through professional development and professional evaluation/feedback."

- The plan provides resources for two over arching areas:
- Funding for significantly augmented teacher leadership
 - Compensation for all teachers to engage in rigorous professional learning.

Stipends are earned by nearly 100 teachers who serve on Building Leadership Teams at every school and the 40 who serve on the District Leadership Team. Leadership teams are responsible for developing, implementing, and evaluating annual improvement plans with multiple measures for student achievement, school climate, high-quality instruction, and community engagement.

The plan also provides funding for most of the 11 instructional coaches who work with the leadership teams and also with individual and small teams of teachers to develop goals aligned to school improvement plans, to observe instruction, provide coaching and feedback, and to help teachers assess and reflect upon their own professional growth.

"The plan is a purposeful, strategic investment in the most important variable for high quality schools: teachers," said Chris Lindholm, assistant superintendent for teaching and learning.

In addition to teacher leadership, all teachers are eligible for ProPay compensation for meeting expectations regarding implementation of a detailed professional learning plan, engaging in a reflective observation and coaching process, and meeting established team and school achievement goals.

"Our new plan rewards the right work which is aligning and improving our adult practices to increase the academic achievement of our students," said Lindholm.

ESL program focuses on continuous improvement

English as a Second Language teachers began meeting in September 2011 to critically review the ESL program in Burnsville-Eagan-Savage School District 191.

During this evaluation, a team from the Elementary & Secondary Education Act Federal Programs office at the Minnesota Department of Education (MDE) conducted a review of the ESL program in February.

During the onsite visit, the MDE team observed instruction in classrooms; interviewed staff, students, and parents; and met with administrative, support, and instructional staff.

The MDE team analyzed evidence of implementation and effectiveness of language instruction and also the professional development processes established by the district.

Further, the MDE team evaluated compliance with required fiscal and administrative oversight activities.

The team's report outlined areas that the district must address including:

- Identification, placement and program exit
- Appropriate programs
- Appropriate staff and professional development
- Parent involvement
- Accountability requirements
- Fiscal requirements
- Nonpublic school participation.

The district responded to MDE's concerns and the ESL program will be implementing procedures for continuous improvement, increased collaboration between ESL teachers and classroom teachers, and focusing on student achievement.

Goal of new funding is to reduce special ed referrals

Students and teachers at Edward Neill, Sky Oaks, and Vista View Elementary Schools will benefit from innovative instructional programming during the 2012-2013 school made possible through new funding.

Burnsville-Eagan-Savage School District 191 has been awarded an additional $492,000 in state aid through the Alternative Delivery for Specialized Individual Services (ADSIS) program.

The goal of the ADSIS program is to reduce the number of students who are referred for special education services. To meet that goal, District 191 will use a newly-developed data collection process that will assist classroom teachers and interventionists by regularly monitoring the academic progress of their students.

In addition, each of the three elementary schools received funding for highly-trained literacy and math interventionists, 60 iPads, and other instructional support for students. The literacy and math interventionists will work together to design and provide additional academic support using data monitoring, co-teaching, instructional technology, and other specialized teaching strategies.

The district is required to document and report the impact of the program and the data related to students who receive services through ADSIS programming. Also, teachers and interventionists will research and document the impact of their collaboration and how it affects the academic progress of their students.

The district will be able to renew its application for a maximum of $500,000 for the 2013-2014 school year.

For more information on the ADSIS program, contact Dr. David Bernard, Director of Instruction, at dbernard@burnsville.k12.mn.us.

Students in most grades take state MCA tests

During the period of April 2 through May 18, 2012, the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments -- Series II (MCA-II) and Series III (MCA-III) were given to District 191 students in grades 3-8, 10, and 11. The Minnesota Comprehensive Assessments are the State tests that help districts measure student progress toward Minnesota's academic standards and meet the requirements of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA).

Students in grades 3 through 8 were administered the MCA-II in reading and MCA-III in mathematics. Students in grade 10 took the MCA-II/GRAD reading test and students in grade 11 took the MCA-II/GRAD mathematics test. Students in grades 5, 8, and 10 were administered the MCA-III science test.

Math scores fall below State averages at most grade levels

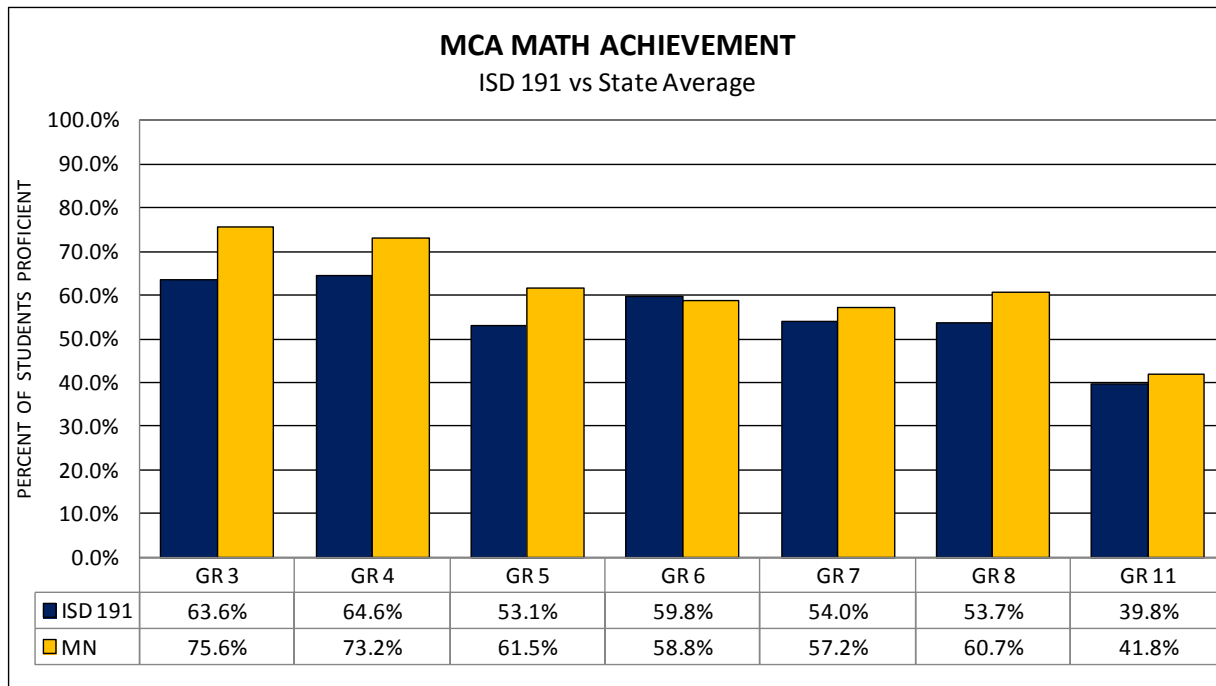

Overall, District 191 student proficiency rates in grades 3 through 11 lag behind State averages. Elementary grades increased 3% on average over the 2011 MCA-III math test. Elementary grades ranged in score proficiency by less than 1% decrease to 6% increase over the previous year. Grade 6 performance exceeded State performance by 1%.

grade 7 and 7% behind the state in grade 8.

Junior high student proficiency rates increased by 7% in grade 7 and increased by 12% in grade 8 over the previous year. Despite such gains, junior high performance on the MCA-III math test remain over 3% behind the State in High school proficiency levels decreased 6% from proficiency levels on the 2011 MCA-II. District high schools remain behind State performance by 2%.

Mathematics performance increased an average of nearly 5% across all student groups. Student group proficiency in comparison to the State proficiency ranges from approximately 9% below the State proficiency rates for the Hispanic student group to 13% nearly above the State proficiency rates for the Black student group on the math MCA.

Reading results show decreased performance

Overall, District 191 student proficiency rates in grades 3 through 10 lag behind the State on average.

Elementary grades decreased slightly from the 2011 MCA-II reading test. Elementary grades ranged in score proficiency by 7% decrease to nearly 6% increase over the previous year. Grade 6 performance exceeded State performance by nearly 6%.

Junior high student proficiency rates decreased by 3% in grade 7 and increased by 9% in grade 8 over the previous year. Junior high performance on the reading MCA-II reading test remain over 7% behind the State in grade 7 and 9% behind the state in grade 8.

High school proficiency levels decreased by 1% from proficiency levels on the 2011 MCA-II. District high schools remain behind State performance by nearly 2%.

Reading performance decreased an average of nearly 2% across all student groups. Student group proficiency in comparison to the State proficiency ranges from approximately 9% below the State proficiency rates for the Hispanic student group to 7% nearly above the State proficiency rates for the Asian/Pacific Islander student group on the reading MCA.

Science scores have not arrived yet from state

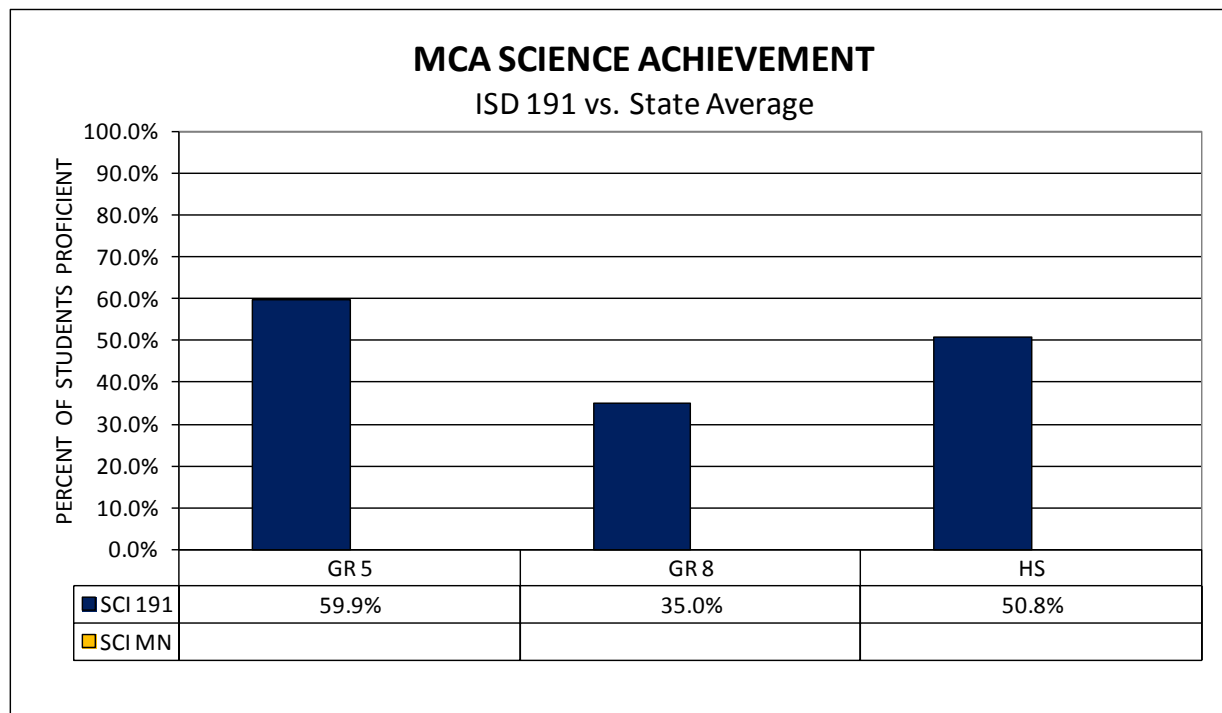

NOTE:

At the time of publication for the September 20 board meeting, there was no State level science data available.

As this is a new test (MCA-III), year to year comparison is not possible.

State information will be forthcoming and will allow for comparison between District 191 and State average number of students proficient.

Most students pass GRAD tests on first try

Each spring students in grades 9-11 take the Minnesota Comprehensive Assessment, Series II (MCA-II)/GRAD tests -- ninth graders in writing, tenth graders in reading and eleventh graders in math.

These tests serve as part of the No Child Left Behind accountability framework used in Minnesota. The Graduation-Required Assessments for Diploma (GRAD) are the state tests that fulfill Minnesota's high school graduation requirement and are embedded within the MCA-II. All students in Minnesota are required to score proficiently on the GRAD in order to receive a diploma from a public high school.

The majority of District 191 students pass the MN GRAD (Graduation Required Assessment for Diploma) tests on their first attempt. Nearly 95% of all District 191 ninth graders passed the GRAD test on the first attempt in 2012 and scored nearly 3% above the State average. This represents nearly a 2% increase from the 2011 test year. Nearly 78% of all District 191 tenth graders passed the GRAD Reading test on the first attempt in 2012 and scored approximately 4% below the State average. This represents nearly a 4% decrease from the 2011 test year. Students participating in the grade 11 GRAD Math test scored nearly 5% below the State average which represents nearly a 2% decrease from the 2011 test year. Nearly 53% of all District 191 juniors passed the GRAD Math test on the first attempt in 2012.

MAP tests monitor academic progress from year to year

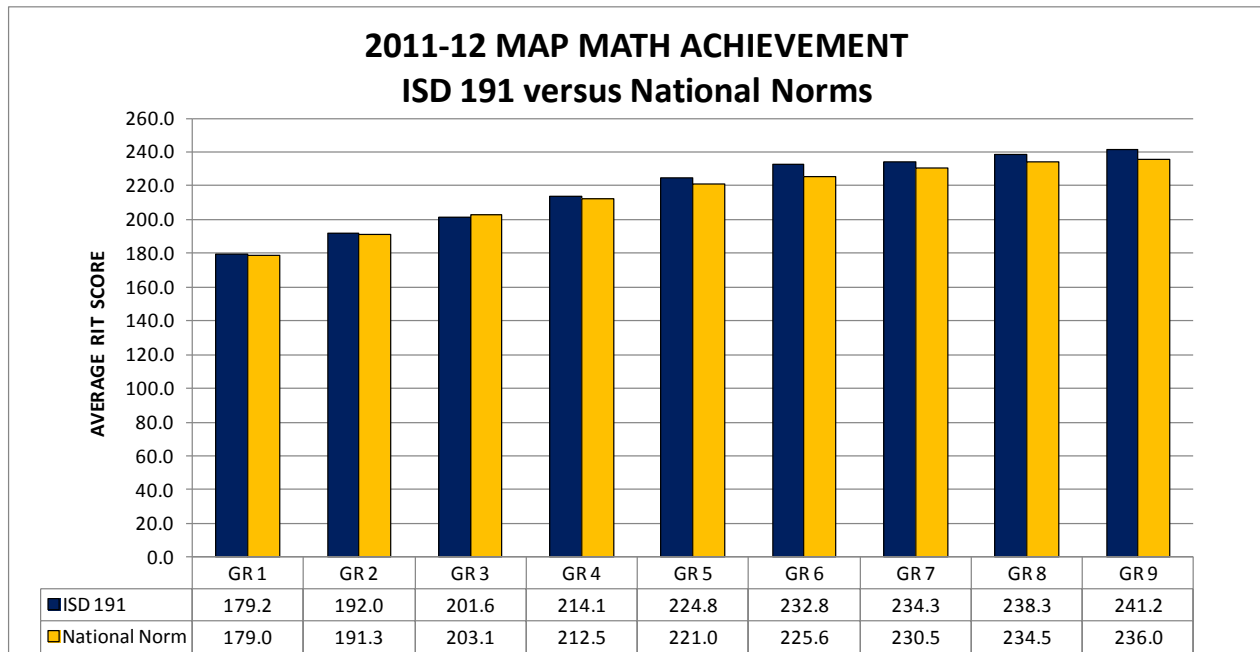

In 191 students in grades 1 through 9 take the Measures of Academic Progress (MAP) test in the fall and spring.

MAP tests are computer adaptive tests that reflect the instructional level of each student and measure academic growth over time. They are aligned to Minnesota State Academic Standards and provide accurate results for teachers to enhance their ability to:

- Monitor academic growth over time
- Place students more accurately into instructional programming
- Identify specific skills individual students have solidified

- Make more accurate decisions about student groupings
- Make data rich decisions at the classroom, school and system level

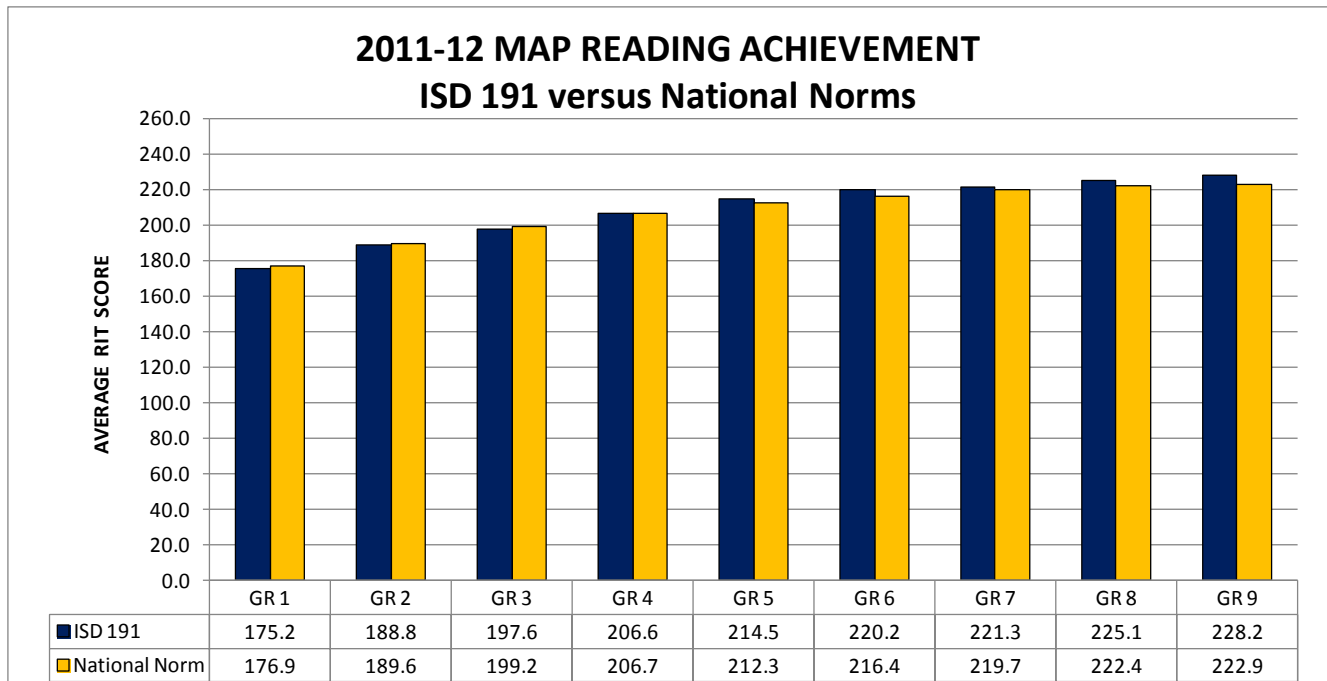

Student scores are expressed in terms of RIT scores which stands for Rasch UnIT. The RIT measurement is on an equal-interval scale developed to simplify test score interpretation. It will measure students' academic growth over time; much like a ruler will measure physical growth in feet and inches. The RIT scores range from approximately 150 to 300. RIT scores allow school districts to follow a student's academic progress from year to year.

Math results:

In math, district students scored above the national norm throughout all grades with the exception of grade 3.

Scores ranged an average of 3 points above the national norms. Greatest achievement occurred in grade 6 at approximately 7 RIT points above and grade 9 at approximately 5 RIT points above the national norm.

Reading results:

In reading, District 191 students scored above the national norm throughout the upper elementary and secondary grades. Scores ranged an average of nearly one point above the national norms, a lower margin than that of MAP math score averages.

Greatest achievement occurred in grade 6 at approximately 4 RIT points and grade 9 at approximately 5 RIT points above the national norm.

BHS students top state average on ACT

Minnesota students are first in the nation on the ACT college admissions test and Burnsville High School students are at or above the state average in nearly every subject area.

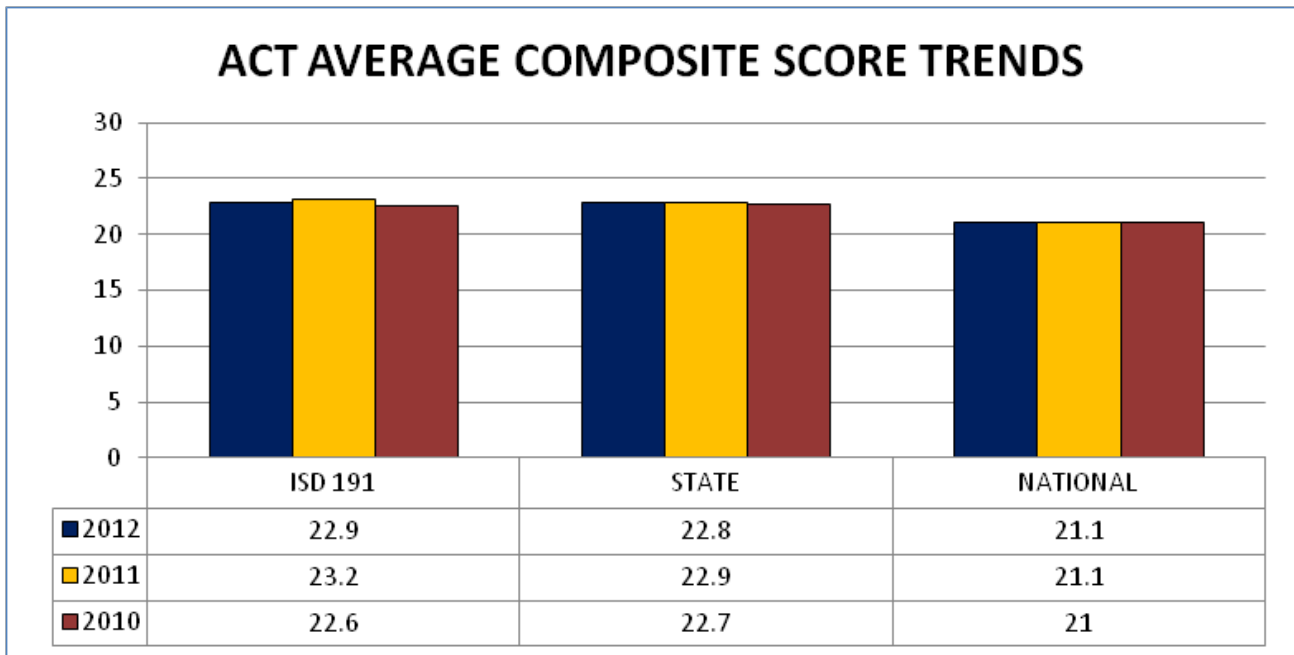

With an average composite score of 22.9, BHS students topped the state average of 22.8. The national average was 21.1. A perfect score would be 36.

“These results are an important indication that our students will have continued success as they go to colleges and universities after they leave Burnsville High School,” said Dr. Randy Clegg, superintendent in Burnsville-Eagan-Savage School District 191. “Our goal is prepare all of our students for continued learning after high school whether it’s a four-year college/university, a two-year community college, an apprenticeship program or other specialized training.”

A total of 502 BHS students took the test in 2012 and scored above the state average in math and in line with the state average in English and science. Scores were a tenth of a percent below the state average in reading.

The ACT Research Department says it is the rigor of the high school coursework that has the greatest impact on ACT performance and college readiness. Students who take more advanced courses substantially increase their scores on the test.

Rigorous college-level courses are offered at Burnsville High School through the Advanced Placement (AP) and the University of Minnesota’s College in the Schools (CIS) programs in which BHS ranks first in the state for participation and credits earned. Also an AP Human Geography course is offered at the district’s three junior high schools. Not only do these courses prepare students for college, but they also allow high school and junior high school students to earn college credits and save thousands of dollars in tuition.

District 191 students achieve and succeed

Here are some of the outstanding achievements of students during the 2011-12 school year.

Jada Pulley, a senior at Burnsville High School, is among Outstanding Participants in the National Achievement Scholarship Program. She scored among the top 3 percent of more than 160,000 Black Americans who requested consideration in the 2012 National Achievement Program when they took the 2010 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Burnsville High School junior Savannah Lim did scientific research over the summer that led to her attending an international conference last fall where she interacted with the former presidents of Ghana and Brazil along with other world leaders. Lim arranged to do lab work up at the University of Minnesota on the effects of benzothiadiazole (a fungicide) on Phytophthora infestans (fungus that causes potato blight).

Burnsville High School students Krista Bain, Carissa Kloncz and Taylor Swingle were selected to present their works at the International Sustainable World Energy Engineering and Environment Project Olympiad (I-SWEEEP) in early May. Bain, a sophomore, was selected for her project measuring how different types of water affected the growth of hydroponic tomato plants over the course of six weeks. Swingle, also a sophomore, was chosen for his work to measure the amount of light pollution over cities.

Burnsville High School seniors Brita Preus and Allie Waters are among finalists in a student essay contest sponsored by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis and will be honored at a luncheon on May 4. Each will receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond.

Kelsey Larson, a Burnsville High School student, was among 30 students from across the country selected to participate in the American Youth Leadership Program (AYLP) sponsored by the U.S. Department of State. To be selected for the all-expense-paid program, students had to demonstrate strong academic and leadership skills in their school or community, as well as a commitment to volunteerism or civic participation.

Burnsville-Eagan-Savage School District 191 is one of only 11 school districts in Minnesota and one of 367 in the nation to be placed on the College Board's 2nd Annual AP® Honor Roll. The prestigious recognition is for simultaneously increasing students' access to Advanced Placement (AP) coursework while maintaining or increasing the percentage of students in grades 9 through 12 who earn scores of 3 or higher on AP exams. Since 2009, District 191 has increased the number of students participating in AP exams from 289 to 386 while maintaining the percentage of students earning AP Exam scores of 3 or higher at 72 percent. Student can potentially earn college credit based on a score of 3, 4 or 5.

A film created by Burnsville High School students Scott Svare and Stephen Browman, entitled "Sight Without Eyes," was selected as best documentary and also as best film overall in May at the EDU Film Festival, the only statewide, student film festival. Stephen, who is blind, was the inspiration for the documentary, said Scott, "When you hear his story, it's inspiring."

Four Burnsville High School broadcasting students were recognized by the Minnesota High School Press Association for scholastic achievement and excellence in high school journalism this year. Junior Nikki Rykhus was given a North Star Journalist Award for maintaining a 3.75 Grade Point Average (GPA) or higher in a leadership role for Burnsville High School's student-produced magazine show "Blaze Weekly." Juniors John Kuziej, Noura El-manssy and Cole Wilkie received Distinguished Journalist awards in recognition for having 2.75 GPAs or higher while serving in leadership roles for "Blaze Weekly."

Burnsville High School senior Nathan Schmid is among 50 high school students selected as semi-finalists in the national "America the Beautiful" essay contest sponsored by Rand McNally and USA Today. Students were challenged to write a one-page essay about one place in the United States that inspires or is meaningful to them. Schmid's essay was entitled, "Pearl Harbor: A Living American Memory."

For the 18th time since 1992, students from Burnsville High School have been selected to participate in the Intel International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF) — the premiere science competition in the world for students in grades 9-12. Presenters at the ISEF in Pittsburgh last spring were Laura Landgraf and Maggie Green with their research, "The Development of Visual Self-Recognition in Toddlers Through Mirror Reflections and Photographs." Alternates were Krista Bain with her research on "Thrive or Survive? An Analysis of Hydroponics" and Scott Svare with "The Effect of ADHD on Reaction Time."

Matthew Helke, a seventh grader in the STEM magnet program at Metcalf Junior High School in Burnsville, is the 2012 National U1000 Junior High Chess Champion. He recently participated in the National Junior High Chess championships in San Diego along with other Metcalf students. Helke was undefeated and led his team to within two points of the national team title in that section.

Two students are selected each year to represent Minnesota at the National Youth Science Camp and this year both students are from Burnsville High School. Seniors Carrissa Klonecz and Ryan Pinkalla earned all-expenses paid spots at the camp in West Virginia which features lectures from top research and academic scientists, daily hands-on seminars and other activities, as well as opportunities for students to explore the Monongahela National Forest and visit the National Radio Astronomy Observatory at Green Bank.

Hidden Valley Elementary was among 136 schools in the state recognized in the spring of 2012 by the Minnesota Center for Reading Research (MCRR) for showing significant improvements in reading achievement among students. Schools were chosen for the honor based on making Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) in reading for two consecutive years after missing AYP the previous year.

I will continue to monitor the reports from MDE to verify corrections necessary for our district have been made and have the Proposed Tax Levy Payable 2013 numbers prepared. At this time, I do not have final MDE generated report, I only have my internal estimates.

The board may take action tonight and certify the “Maximum Amount” based on our internal estimate allowing the Board Clerk to sign the certification once completed (provided it is similar to the estimate); or the Board of Education may hold a special meeting next week prior to September 28, 2012 to take action on setting the Truth In Taxation Hearing date and Certification of Proposed Property Tax Levy Payable 2013.
